Discover how Keelvar and SupplyShift can empower customers to make more informed, responsible decisions

As the business landscape evolves, the ability to navigate new regulations, effectively engage with suppliers, and adapt strategies to comply with sustainability mandates has become essential. Access to accurate and relevant data is crucial in providing the insights needed for making informed and responsible decisions that meet these evolving industry standards.

Balancing Profit and Planet

In the quest for sustainability, procurement professionals face the dual challenge of meeting regulatory compliance and stakeholder expectations while managing costs and maintaining profitability.

The combination of Keelvar's sourcing optimization with SupplyShift's sustainability data enables a strategy that doesn't compromise on either.

Advanced Sourcing Meets Rich Data

Real data is the lifeblood of sustainability insights, enabling better and more responsible decisions. By combining Keelvar's intelligent sourcing capabilities with SupplyShift's robust sustainability data, procurement teams can now assess suppliers on both cost and carbon footprint, ensuring that every decision supports company sustainability goals.

But the value of the partnership doesn't end there. The synergy between Keelvar and SupplyShift allows for a holistic approach where traditional decision factors like Total Cost of Ownership (TCO) are balanced with metrics such as human rights due diligence compliance. As a result, sustainability performance can be valued alongside price, delivery terms, and other critical procurement considerations.

There is also a growing demand among Keelvar's customers for comprehensive RFI templates to effectively assess their suppliers. In this regard, SupplyShift's offerings seamlessly integrate with this need.

"Our partnership with Keelvar reinforces our commitment to helping businesses make better and more insightful decisions, enabling them to improve their global footprint. By combining our existing capabilities, we provide a holistic solution for responsible sourcing"

- Carin Ivarsson, Director of Alliances, SupplyShift

In partnership with SupplyShift, Keelvar is developing a procurement ecosystem that empowers organizations to enrich their tenders with extensive data, ensuring ethical and responsible sourcing decisions.

Cultivating a Responsible Supply Chain

The collaboration between Keelvar and SupplyShift is not just about providing services—it's about transforming the procurement process. Embedding sustainability at the core of procurement activities allows our customers to not only succeed but also to contribute positively to the global community and the environment.

SupplyShift's solution can be integrated at various stages of a tender lifecycle in Keelvar, from the RFI to the feedback and scenario building.
